Executive Summary

The Tribal Welfare Department, Government of Andhra Pradesh, has given operational guidelines for implementation of PESA 1998 and 2011 operational rules. The Government of Andhra Pradesh has also officially notified 1612 Gram Sabhas in 584 Gram Panchayat in five districts in 2013. Thereafter, the Tribal Welfare Department has also given second operational rules in 2017 for the effective implementation of the Act.

The Department of Tribal Welfare, Government of Andhra Pradesh and Tribal Cultural Research and Training Institute, (TCR&TI), Visakhapatnam has entrusted CESS to conduct the study with the following objectives.

The objectives are as follows:

To assess the level of awareness among both elected representatives and members of the Gram Sabha about the PESA Act.

1. To know the features of PESA Act and the problems associated with the implementation of this Act.
2. To understand the nature and extent of problems in implementing the PESA Act.
3. To evaluate the impact of PESA Act on empowerment of Gram Sabha/ Gram Panchayats
4. To identify the gaps in implementation and suggest policy and legal measures for its effective enforcement.
5. To analyse the role of Gram Sabha in implementation of various development programmes meant for tribal development.

The research study is based on both qualitative and quantitative in nature. The secondary source data was from already published works and government records. The data was collected using schedules and the qualitative data was collected through group discussions in the field villages. The study was conducted in East Godavari and Srikakulam districts of Andhra Pradesh. The household data was collected from purposively selected villages from East Godavari and Srikakulam districts. Schedule for data collection, contained some open-ended questions framed for the collection of data. A software application was developed containing the questions according to the schedule. The software (smart phone application) for data collection was uploaded on to the smart phones of the investigators to enable them to collect data digitally using their smart phones.

The field data shows that the gram Sabha members are not aware of the Act. Majority of the tribals, 81.6 percent and 77 percent from Seethampeta and Maredumilli mandals, respectively, are not aware of the Act. Similarly, most of them are not aware that Gram Sabha is made the grass root level enquiry point for all levels of developmental works in the village. Nearly 39 percent of the respondents do not know the Sarpanch of the Gram Panchayat has to be the President of the Gram Sabha. The details of the community lands have to be provided to the Gram Sabha so that their utilization for the benefit of the community can be discussed and planned. But in reality, this is not happening. The situation is, thus, grim.

The operational guidelines for the implementation of PESA Act, 1998 was given in 2011. However, many respondents revealed that, PESA Act is still not implemented in their village. According to the Act, it is mandatory to conduct Gram Sabha meetings twice a year. However, Gram Sabha meetings are not conducted regularly. In fact, in Goidhi, a village in Seethampeta Mandal, Gram Sabha meeting was conducted only once when it was constituted in 2013 after the declaration of official Gram Sabhas. In cases where meetings are conducted, the members are not attending the same. The reasons they gave for not attending are that they are not informed about the meetings and village problems are not solved in the meetings. And since they don't attend, they are not aware of the issues discussed there. Those who attend feel that the plans discussed are not properly implemented because all the members are not aware of the plans and also due to insufficient budget. The respondents also suggested that the Gram Sabha has to be more active in solving problems for the effective implementation of PESA Act.

The enthusiasm among the tribals in Kutrawada, a village of Maredumilli Mandal, is however, is appreciable. Most of the respondents attend the meetings having discussions on issues like development activities, sanitation issues, MGNREGA (Mahatma Gandhi National Rural Employment Guarantee Act, DWACRA (Development of women and children in rural areas), social audit, various diseases, old age pension, BPL cards, electing PESA Vice President and Secretary, issues of MFP (Minor Forest Products), giving prizes to children, celebration of festivals, raising funds for marriage, death, natural calamities, holding Gram Sabha special meetings, land registration, etc.

Based on group discussions during field work, there are number of issues in the villages which easily be solved at village level in the light of PESA Act. Still drinking water is a problem in some villages (Irapadu, Dubbaguda and Megadiraguda). Still there are no drinking water tanks/taps (Jamparikota) and in some places though water well is there and there is no pumpset (Kegumanu guda). Small works such as drainage cleaning may not require much funds. But this is the problem in some villages (Dubbaguda and Solipi). In some villages, they require flood water walls which protect the villages during heavy rains (Megadiraguda, Jamparikota, Kegumanuguda and Nowgada). Still there is requirement of YSR houses (Irapadu, Solipi and Peddamamidi).

Relating to basic infrastructure facilities some villages need Anganwadi centre, community halls, school buildings in place of old dilapidated buildings. Similarly roads are required particularly internal roads. If Grama Sabha are active these kind of problems can be solved easily. If these issues are repeatedly discussed in Grama Sabhas and nothing happens, people loose interest in these institutions.

There are number of land related issues are reported. Some lands are in the name of deceased and ownership is not changed still. Even land pattas are not properly written. In number of cases names are not properly entered. As a result, they could not get Rythu Barosa Pathakam” money into their accounts.

Recommendations: Among majority of the respondents in all the mandals, however, the level of understanding of the PESA Act was very poor and may not be helpful in the implementation of the PESA Act for the benefits of the tribals. Hence, it is necessary to properly make the members understand about the PESA Act and its importance in tribal affairs. Enough efforts have not been made to mobilise about the importance of PESA Act. Awareness programs by both government and NGOs can play an important role in educating the tribals.

Participation of the people in Gram Sabhas must be encouraged and the best-performing Gram Sabhas and Gram Panchayats should be further motivated. One of the reasons for the non-implementation of the plans and programmes discussed in the Gram Sabha meetings, according to the respondents, is the provision of insufficient budget. It is necessary for the ITDA to allocate some funds directly to individual Gram Sabhas through concerned Gram Panchayats for the mobilisation and implementation of PESA Act. Camps for the mobilisation of the Act have to be done from time to time, by tribal organizations and NGOs as well as government organizations.

Assessment of Implementation of PESA Act in Andhra Pradesh

1 Introduction

A conspicuous trait of Indian culture is the survival of tribal society and culture in the midst of a rapidly changing society. The tribal population in the State and in the country as a whole is the most deprived and vulnerable community that faces severe economic exclusion. Although certain constitutional safeguards are provided, there has been no economic, social and political mobility across these communities. The Scheduled Tribes remain abysmally backward and socially excluded, still living in harsh environments.

Social exclusion and immense deprivation of tribes is closely associated with the denial of property rights, civil rights and lack of access to education. Due to their physical and social isolation from the rest of the mainstream society, the extent of deprivation became more intense. It is this institutionalized exclusion of the tribes from access to economic rights, civil rights and human development, which has caused severe poverty and deprivation among them. The scheduled tribes are a product of marginalization based on ethnicity. There are around 10.43 crore scheduled tribe populations in India as per the 2011 Census which accounts for 8.6% of the total population of country. Considered socially and economically disadvantaged, they are mainly landless with little control over resources, such as land, forest and water. They constitute a large proportion of agricultural labourers, casual labourers, plantation and industrial workers, etc.

The Central and State Governments, during the past seven decades, have enacted several legislations and programmes and established special institutions for the socio-economic and political advancement of STs and achieving equity and inclusive growth in the society. 'Positive interventions' 'affirmative measures' and accompanying policy processes were initiated for an encompassing empowerment of these social groups over half a century ago. All the Five Year Plans have recognized the problems of these communities and accorded priority to their development. The draft National Tribal Policy, 2006 seeks to bring Scheduled Tribes into the mainstream of society through a multi-pronged approach for their all-round development under the paradigm of ‘continuity in change’ which meant bringing changes without disturbing their distinct culture.

The development programmes are for solving persisting problems by providing basic services. These include- enforcement of protective measures to prevent tribe indebtedness, bonded labour, and other exploitations; involving tribes gainfully in joint forest management, social forestry, agro-forestry, etc, and facilitate collection and disposal of minor forest products and other produce, to strengthen grass root democratic institutions through PRIs (Panchayati Raj Institution), and Gram Sabhas as per the PESA Act, 1996.

The 73rd Constitutional Amendment Act, 1992 ushered in a national framework for local self-governance by creation of Panchayati Raj Institutions (PRIs). This national framework was more or less uniformly applicable in all the states except Scheduled Areas prescribed in the Constitution of India.

The Panchayats (Extension to Scheduled Area) Act 1996, was enacted to provide self-autonomy to tribals in Vth Scheduled Areas of the country in conformity with the traditional tribal practice of local governance. The Central Government enacted the PESA Act 1996, on the recommendations of the Bhuria Committee Report in 1996. The community suggested that the state should not intervene in tribal traditions, ethos and autonomy. All states with Scheduled Areas were to enact a suitable legislation within a year that are consistent and not in contradiction to PESA, the central Act. The rationale behind the Act is to bring at par the tribal population to the general population of Rural Community. The Act ensures that tribal people will be empowered to manage their affairs according to their own culture within the purview of the Act. Singh points out that the Acts like The Panchayats (Extension to the Scheduled Areas) Act, and the Scheduled Tribes and Other Traditional Forest Dwellers Act of 2006 offer a great opportunity to provide equitable governance in tribal dominated backward areas. These laws are, however, skeletons and need the flesh and sinews of operational rules and guidelines for the removal of legal incongruence to ensure a dignified tribal life and awareness campaigns on self-governance and community control over natural resources (Singh, 2006).

According to Ajit Menon, 2007, both PESA and FRA Acts are two major legislations which give the tribals the power to exercise control over natural resources and self-governance. With the enactment of laws to uphold tribal rights, there is also the state’s concern for developments which deny these rights to the tribals. For example, the Wildlife Protection Act of 1972 has empowered the state to exercise control over forest lands. Since land and decentralization are state subjects, protective legislation such as PESA remain largely unimplemented (Menon, 2007).

1.1 Fifth Scheduled Areas

During the British period, a large number of areas predominantly inhabited by adivasis were declared as excluded/ partially excluded areas. These areas came under the purview of the Scheduled Districts Act of 1874 and the Government of India (Excluded and Partially Excluded Areas) Order 1936. These areas, after independence, and also other areas with a significant concentration of scheduled tribes (or 'Tribals') were brought under the fifth schedule of the constitution. The purpose of Scheduled Areas is to preserve tribal autonomy, ensure social, economic and political justice and empowerment and preservation of peace and good governance in the Scheduled Areas. For the Fifth Schedule areas, the major institutional bodies are the Tribal Advisory Councils (TACs) operating at the state level. The Fifth Schedule recognizes the central role of the Governor in governance and administration of the Scheduled Areas, with the President of India holding the final responsibility of ensuring the integrity of the Scheduled Areas. Further, the Governor promulgates the laws for this scheduled areas and he or she can modify and reject both the central and state government laws regarding the Fifth Schedule for the wellbeing of scheduled tribes.

B.D Sharma, 1995, points out that the Fifth Schedule did not cover tribal people in certain areas, because of administrative problems and policy confusion. The focus is on the issue of self-governance in tribal areas. He opines that it is necessary to cover all the tribal areas for the overall development and protection of tribes. It does not have a place for institutional and legal framework. As such, the general laws and administrative rules, which were extended to tribal areas, have led to the emergence of conflict between tribal traditional institutions and formal institutions. Further Sharma points out that the traditional institutions should be the foundation for the modern formal institutions. Almost all tribal institutions are functioning as democratic bodies with an egalitarian spirit (Sharma, 1995).

Scheduled Areas are found in ten states of India which have predominant population of tribal communities. In Andhra Pradesh, the 34 categories of Scheduled Tribes form a sizeable component of STs in South India. Among them Chenchu, Kondareddy, Kondh, Porja, Gadaba, and Savara are specially categorized as Particularly Vulnerable Tribals Groups (PVTG). The total tribal population of Andhra Pradesh, according to Census, 2011, is 27.39 lakh, which constitutes 5.53 per cent of the total State population. The Fifth Scheduled Area, in Andhra Pradesh, is spread over five districts of Srikakulam, Vizianagaram, Visakhapatnam, East Godavari and West Godavari. The tribal communities are traditionally self-governed. These communities have unique social, cultural, economic and political systems which they have sustained over centuries. They also have their own customary laws and mechanisms of local dispute resolution.

1.2: Panchayats Extension to Scheduled Area (PESA) Act 1996

On the recommendations of the Bhuria Committee Report in 1995, the Central Government enacted Panchayats Extension to Scheduled Area (PESA) Act 1996. The Bhuria Committee favoured democratic decentralization in scheduled areas. The rationale behind the Act is to bring at par the tribal population to the general population of Rural Community. The Act ensures that tribal people will be empowered to manage their affairs according to their own culture within the purview of the Act. All states with Scheduled Areas were to enact a suitable legislation within a year that are consistent and not in contradiction to the central Act of PESA.

The Act spelt out the role of PRIs in general and Gram Sabhas in particular for preparing Development Plans in the tribal areas, considering the magnitude of poverty, inequality and the nature and extent of underdevelopment in these areas, aiming to promote the development of the Scheduled Tribes through respecting their culture, traditions and custom. Every village shall have a Gram Sabha consisting of persons whose names are included in the electoral rolls for the Panchayat at the village level. The Act has granted powers to the Gram Sabhas to approve of plans, programs and projects for social and economic development. The Gram Sabhas and Gram Panchayats were also given the responsibility of identification of beneficiaries under the poverty alleviation and other programs, providing certificates to the Gram Panchayats for utilisation of funds, ownership over natural resources-especially the minor forest produces and the power to control local plans and the resources for such plans including the Tribal Sub-Plans (TSP).

1.3: PESA in Andhra Pradesh

AP State brought PESA legislation in the year 1998. The Government of Andhra Pradesh brought PESA Rules 2011, giving an effect to the State PESA Act and also notified the Gram Sabhas under the Rules in 2013 (Appendix-I). Gram Sabha is the nucleus for all development activities in the Scheduled Areas under PESA Act. It is competent to safeguard and preserve the traditions and customs of the people and their cultural identity. As per the PESA Act, Gram Sabhas or Panchayats at the appropriate level shall be consulted before making the acquisition of land in the scheduled areas for development projects and before settling or rehabilitating persons affected by such projects. PESA stipulates that Gram Sabha is the approval authority for the socio-economic plans, programs and projects. It is also expected that the rules will help the Gram Sabhas to function in effective manner (Trinadha Rao). States are indulging in the exploitation of mineral resources, and are taking up several projects in the resource rich tribal areas. The decision of Gram Sabha shall have a bearing on the policy of States in relation to exploitation of mineral wealth and other resources in Schedule V Areas. However, if key powers are given to Gram Sabha it would be difficult for the Governments to manage the decisions of the Gram Sabha. The States are, therefore, unwilling to assign powers to Gram Sabha in key subjects under PESA Act (Dash, 2011).

Although Andhra Pradesh has given power to this body, there is a condition that disputes could be settled according to customary mode of dispute resolution "without detriment to any law for the time being in force. Disputes on community resources, particularly forest, etc, would be settled by existing forest Acts and not according to the customary mode of dispute resolution. The Extension Act prescribes that prior consultation with the Gram Sabha or the panchayat at appropriate level before acquiring of land for development of projects and before resettling or rehabilitating persons affected by such projects, is mandatory. The Extension Act has been an important legislative framework to be enacted by the state legislatures for the tribals to have their control and rights over natural resources and conserve and preserve their identity and culture and that too in a participatory manner through the institution of Gram Sabha. The Andhra Pradesh Acts have devolved this function to mandal panchayat and taluka panchayat respectively, and not to the Gram Sabha (Mahi Pal, 2000).

Saroj Kumar Dash, 2011, studied the operational issues of PESA Act in Odisha. The State of Odisha had complied, partially, with the provisions of the Central PESA Act while modifying its PRI Acts - Orissa Gram Panchayat Act, 1964, Orissa Panchayat Samiti Act, 1959 and Orissa Zilla Parishad Act, 1991. The detailed analysis of PESA in Odisha is limited to little change in the Panchayat Act without much devolution of powers to the Panchayats in Scheduled Areas or to the tribals to live through life in their way with their traditional dignity (Dash, 2011).

Aruna Kumar conducted a field based study in the coastal district of Visakhapatnam district in Andhra Pradesh. His study came up with interesting findings on the governance in scheduled areas with special reference to three village panchayats- Laxmipuram and Kilagada from Munchingi Puttumandal and Vanjangi from Paderu mandal. The findings show that the awareness is very low and bureaucracy is ignorant of the provisions of the PESA Act. The attempts to impose formal rules on tribals have created tension. Participation of tribals in self-governance is under threat because of denial of access to basic resources like land, water and forests. The emerging new political leadership controls the governance and is not accountable to the community. Since Gram Sabha meetings are not been conducted on a regular basis, participation has reduced over the past few years. People have little control over decision making and have little faith in the new mechanism. Women participation is significantly low than that of men. There is no cordial cooperation between locally working bodies. Traditional institutions have been performing better than PRIs (Aruna Kumar, 2008).

Sanjay Upadhyay argues that the enactment of the PESA Act is like ‘skeletons’ which require operational rules and guidelines. There is a need for awareness campaigns regarding self-governance and community control over natural resources. The author feels that PESA has not been implemented in the spirit in which it was conceived. Constitutional privileges have been created to manage the scheduled areas. The constitution makers, during the constitutional framework, discussed the issues related to tribals through three sub committees. It is imperative to remove the incongruence which obstructs tribal decent livelihood (Upadhyay, 2010).

1.4: Need of the study

The Government of AP issued rules under the Act on March 21, 2011. The Government of Andhra Pradesh also notified Gram Sabhas under the Rules in 2013. Few concerns relating to the implementation of the Act in Andhra Pradesh has come up from the above discussion. The State PESA Act and its rules are not as per the letter and spirit of the Central PESA Act. Therefore, there is a need to amend the State Act and bring it in conformity with the Central Act. There are some State and Central laws which are inconsistent with the provisions of PESA Act. These laws, rules and executive instructions related to mines, MFP, moneylending etc., need to be amended or repealed and harmonised with the provisions of the PESA Act. For example, the Girijan Cooperative Corporation is the sole agent of MFP collection and marketing in Scheduled Areas of the State as per AP Scheduled Areas Minor Forest Produce (Regulation of Trade) Regulation, 1979. This monopoly right continues despite the provisions of PESA Act which empowers the Gram Sabha with ownership of MFP.

Reservations of seats under PESA are in proportion to the population of tribal communities in panchayats. The State Act stipulates that the Sarpanches of the Gram Panchayats and the president of the Mandal Parishads are reserved for STs. It has completely left out the district panchayat. Proportionate reservations need to be extended to tribal people in the district panchayat also.

Based on the above background, an attempt will be made to examine whether the PESA Act has been implemented effectively to facilitate local governance in the Scheduled Areas as per the provisions of the Act or not.

1.5: Objectives

The proposed study seeks to find out whether the well-intended legislation has created any impact in ensuring autonomy to Adivasis in Scheduled Areas.

The objectives are as follows:

1. To assess the level of awareness among both elected representatives and members of the Gram Sabha about the PESA Act.
2. To know the features of PESA Act and the problems associated with the implementation of this Act.
3. To understand the nature and extent of problems in implementing the PESA Act.
4. To evaluate the impact of PESA Act on empowerment of Gram Sabha/ Gram Panchayats
5. To identify the gaps in implementation and suggest policy and legal measures for its effective enforcement.
6. To analyse the role of Gram Sabha in implementation of various development programmes meant for tribal development.

1.6: Methodology

The research study is based on both qualitative and quantitative in nature. The secondary source data was from already published works and government records. The data was collected using schedules and the qualitative data was collected through group discussions in the field villages. The study was conducted in East Godavari and Srikakulam districts of Andhra Pradesh.

The household data was collected from purposively selected villages from East Godavari and Srikakulam districts. Schedule for data collection, contained some open-ended questions framed for the collection of data. A software application was developed containing the questions according to the schedule. The software (smart phone application) for data collection was uploaded on to the smart phones of the investigators to enable them to collect data digitally using their smart phones.

The schedule was divided into six sections. The first section was about awareness of PESA among the members of the Gram Sabha in villages in Andhra Pradesh. The second section dealt with the awareness of respondents about the features of the PESA Act. The third section looked into the problems in implementing PESA Act. Impact of PESA Act on the empowerment of Gram Sabha/Gram Panchayat was dealt in the fourth section. The fifth section gathered information regarding the gaps in implementation and suggest policy and legal measures for its effective enforcement. The role of Gram Sabha in implementation of various development programmes meant for tribal development was probed in the last section.

The data was collected with the help of a software application. A software application has been developed containing the questions according to the schedule. The software (smart phone application) for data collection was uploaded on to the smart phones of the investigators to enable them to collect data digitally using their smart phones. Log-in ids and passwords were generated for the investigators.

Training of the investigators including technical knowledge about the Act and the use of the mobile application for data collection was imparted. Fieldwork initiated much before start of Covid 19. There was a long gap due to series Covid 19 related lock downs. The data collection for remaining work once again started from 21st of August and was completed by 13th of September, 2020. However, the data for Goidhi in Seethampet mandal of Srikakulam and Kutrawada in Maredumilli Mandal of East Godavari districts were collected before the lockdown for covid-19.

Limitations: Field work was completed in East Godavari before Covid 19 situation. Several limitations impeded the progress of this research. The advent of covid-19 and the subsequent lockdown delayed further data collection. Only Seethampeta ITDA could be visited. ITDA in Vijayanagaram was shut down because of few cases of covid-19 cases among the staff. It was, hence difficult to get the details of villages. It was not feasible to visit far off villages. Only nearby villages could be visited. Many of the villages and hamlets had very poor internet connectivity which made the data collection over the app difficult and took more time.

2. Awareness of PESA in Andhra Pradesh

The next sections are based on the data gathered from the members of the Gram Sabha.

The above table reveals that only 20.2 percent of the tribals are aware, while nearly 79.8 percent are not aware of the provisions under the PESA Act. Out of those who are aware, 65.2 percent are from Seethampeta mandal and 29 percent from Maredumilli mandal of Srikakulam and East Godavari district, respectively. In Hiramandalam mandal of Srikakulam, both the respondents are aware of the act. Among those who are not aware, 73.5 percent of the tribals are from Seethampeta, and 24.6 percent from Maredumilli mandal. Both the respondents from Kothuru and three respondents in Palakonda mandals are also not aware of the Act. Palakonda also has two respondents who are aware of the Act. Thus, the situation is grim as the PESA Act empowers the tribal people to have their own governance while safeguarding and preserving their traditions, customs and their cultural identity. Earlier study by Aruna kumar in Visakhapatnam district of Andhra Pradesh has also shown that awareness is very low and bureaucracy is ignorant of the provisions of the PESA Act (Table 2.1).

Nearly, 81.6 percent and 77 percent from Seethampeta and Maredumilli mandals, respectively, are not aware of the Act.

Those who are aware, reveal about the sources from which they came to know about the PESA Act like posters, NGOs, newspapers, Gram Sabha, Gram Panchayat, Government officials and Tribal organisations. A little more than half (58 percent) of the respondents came to know about the Act at the Gram Sabha. For 29 percent of the respondents, tribal organizations are the source for the dissemination of PESA Act, out of which, 85 percent are from Maredumilli, East Godavari. Two respondents, one each from Palakonda and Seethampeta mandals came to know about the Act from Gram Panchayat. And one from Seethampeta said he came to know about the Act from NGO. Both the respondents in Hiramandalam and one from Palakonda have known about the Act from Governmental officials (Table 2.2).

The Gram Sabha, according to the PESA Act, is made to be the enquiry unit at the grass root level for all types of developmental activities. The tribals need to be aware of this for the effective implementation of all activities and local governance in the Scheduled areas. However, the field data show a different picture. More than three fourth of the respondents (79.2 percent) are not aware of this provision while only 20.8 percent are aware of the provision in PESA Act. Among those who are aware, 73.2 percent are from Seethampeta, 21.1 percent from Maredumilli and 2.8 percent each from Hiramandalam and Palakonda Mandal. The difference between the mandals can be due to the fact that number of respondents in Seethampeta is much higher than the other mandals (Table 2.3).

According to PESA, the Sarpanch of the Gram Panchayat, shall be the President of the Gram Sabha. The data reveals that more than half of the respondents (61 percent) in both Srikakulam and East Godavari are aware that the Village Sarpanch shall be the President of the Gram Sabha. Only one respondent from Palakonda mandal said that the Secretary of the Gram Panchayat is to be the President of the Gram Sabha. Among those who said village Sarpanch, two respondents each are from Hiramandalam and Kothuru mandal, and four respondents are from Palakonda mandal, while a majority of them (81.2 percent) are from Seethampeta mandal (Table 2.4).

The PESA Act provides that Panchayat Extension Officer or Panchayat Secretary or Village Revenue Officer shall provide the Gram Sabha with the details of common lands or community lands, so that their utilization for the common benefit of the community may be planned and discussed. Gram Sabha with the help of Panchayat Secretary and Village Revenue Officer shall prepare a ‘Village Assets Register’ with details of community assets, present usage, change in usage, etc. Gram Sabha also has to take necessary steps for the protection of common lands from alienation. The field data reveals that little half of the respondents (51.9 percent) are aware of this provision. Nearly 38.4 percent are not aware of the provision and 9.7 percent of the respondents felt that this is not happening. Most of the respondents, who are aware, are from Seethampeta (88.7 percent). Nearly 7.9 percent, 2.3 percent and 1.1 percent are from Maredumilli, Palakonda and Hiramandalam Mandal, respectively, are also aware of the provision. Among those who are not aware, 51.1 percent are from Seethampeta and 46.6 percent from Maredumilli. Moreover, even though some are aware, feel that this is not happening (Table 2.5).

Summary

The PESA Act empowers the tribal people to have their own governance while safeguarding and preserving their traditions, customs and their cultural identity. However, the field data shows that the gram Sabha members are not aware of the Act. Majority of the tribals, 81.6

percent and 77 percent from Seethampeta and Maredumilli mandals, respectively, are not aware of the Act. Similarly, most of them are not aware that Gram Sabha is made the grass root level enquiry point for all levels of developmental works in the village. Nearly 39 percent of the respondents do not know the Sarpanch of the Gram Panchayat has to be the President of the Gram Sabha. The details of the community lands have to be provided to the Gram Sabha so that their utilization for the benefit of the community can be discussed and planned. But in reality, this is not happening. The situation is, thus, grim.

With respect to review power on safeguarding the tribal culture and traditions, as per the APPEA Act 1998, section 242 (c) (1) the Gram Sabha is responsible to review the tribal culture and traditional ethos. The Gram Sabha has to document the customary modes of resolutions and traditional management practices of community resources, and other traditions and customary norms. It is the duty of the Gram Sabha to resolve an issue once a complaint is received. The Gram Sabha shall, however, not take any decision which is against public policy or existing laws in force. The field data, however, reveals that only 32 percent of the respondents are aware of this power of the Gram Sabha. Nearly 37.8 percent of the respondents said that safeguarding traditions and customs is the responsibility of tribal leaders or tribal Panchayat, followed by Village Development Council (10.3 percent) and others like Gram Panchayat, politician, etc (3.2percent). Few (16.7 percent) are not aware of this provision. Among those who are aware of this power of Gram Sabha, 78 percent are from Seethampeta and 16.5 percent from Maredumilli mandals. Only 2 and 4 respondents are from Kothuru and Palakonda responded as Gram Sabha (Table 3.1).

The PESA Act provides that the police or revenue authorities have to observe restraint and avoid entertaining the grievances in relation to traditional, customs and personal matters (traditional festivals, ceremonies, matrimonial matters, devolution of properties, crop destruction compensation matters, etc)., which are civil in nature arising from the village. The police have to refer it to the Gram Sabha which has jurisdiction for the customary mode of dispute resolution except in cases where immediate police action is needed to maintain the public peace and tranquillity. However, the above table reveals that only 25.2 percent of the respondents are familiar with this provision while almost three fourth of them (74.8 percent) said that they are not aware. Out of those who are aware, nearly 68.6 percent are from Seethampeta and 25.6 percent from Maredumilli. Both the respondents from Hiramandalam and three from Palakonda are also aware of this provision in the PESA Act (Table 3.2).

According to PESA, the Gram Sabha shall approve plans, programmes and projects for social and economic development before they are taken up for implementation by the Gram Panchayat at the village level. The Gram Sabha has to be facilitated to assess and prioritize the needs of the village. The concerned institutions need to present the complete information related to the program or plan or project, including relevance, importance and also the financial details of the program, before the Gram Sabha. Moreover, this has to be presented in a commonly understandable, preferably vernacular language. The above table shows that almost half of the respondents (52.5 percent) have responded that the Gram Sabha has to approve plans for social and economic development. While 7.3 percent and 6.5 percent of them said that this is the duty of Gram Panchayat and others like Mandal Parishad, ITDA, etc, respectively. However, 33.7 percent didn't know about this duty of Gram Sabha (Table 3.3).

According to PESA, the Gram Sabha has to finalise the list of beneficiaries on the basis of economic condition of the family for development programs. The concerned departments has to obtain the list of beneficiaries identified and selected by the Gram Sabha for implementation of poverty alleviation programs before releasing the funds for the program. Suitable instructions are to be issued to all division and district level officials. However, the data shows that 39.6 percent of the respondents only are aware that Gram Sabha is responsible for the identification and selection of beneficiaries for poverty alleviation programs. However, 60.4 percent of them are not aware of this guideline as per the PESA Act. Thus, even though the villagers are being engaged in government sponsored schemes and programmes like MGNREGA they are not aware of as to who is finalizing the beneficiaries (Table 3.4).

PESA Act provides that a copy of the approved budgets is to be placed before the Gram Sabha for discussion on the utilization of last year's budget/expenditure, schemes implemented, etc and on the requirements of the current year, to improve the situation. The Utilization Certificates (UCs) from the concerned Gram Sabha, detailing the procedures and processes of utilization of funds released and schemes completed should be taken which is required for further action. The data reveals that nearly 55.7 percent of the respondents are not aware of this provision in PESA Act. Nearly 21.7 percent said that though they are aware of the provision, but this is not been happening. Nearly 22.6 percent of the respondents, however, responded that last year budget is being discussed with village people in the Gram Sabha. The planning and management of minor water bodies is the responsibility of Gram Sabha, Gram Panchayat, Mandal Parishad and Zilla Parishad, as the case may be, that fall in their jurisdiction, for the common benefit of the people. The concerned irrigation department have to take approval of the concerned Gram Sabha or Panchayat at the appropriate level before regulating the supply of water from a minor water body and also provide technical advice in developing a management plan for the same. However, the above table reveals that a majority of respondents (80.1 percent) are not aware of this responsibility of Gram Sabha or Panchayat at the appropriate level. Only 19.9 percent are aware of the same. Among those who are aware, 52.9 percent are from Seethampeta, followed by 39.7 percent from Maredumilli, 4.4 percent from Palakonda and 2.9 percent from Hiramandalam (Table 3.6).

The Gram Sabha can decide whether the transactions are legal or not and take necessary action, accordingly. A majority of 86.8 percent of the respondents are not aware of this feature of Gram Sabha. Only 13.2 percent of them said that they are aware of this provision. After considering all the issues and keeping in view the problems due to and effects of such acquisition and coming up of new projects on the scheduled tribe population, to suggest measures and action that will benefit the tribal population. Mandal Praja Parishad is also to be consulted for implementing the rehabilitation and resettlement plans by the project authorities. The Land acquisition officers or Rehabilitation and Resettlement officers have to attend Gram Sabha and Mandal Praja Parishad and furnish any information required. The field data shows that only 20.2 percent of the respondents are aware and feel that this happening in their village, while 5.6 percent, though aware, responded that this is not happening in the village. However, a majority of 74.2 percent are not aware of this rule in the PESA Act. Among those who said, it is happening, 66.7 percent are from Seethampeta, 26.1 percent from Maredumilli and very few from Palakonda (4.3 percent) and Kothuru (2.9 percent). Consumption of alcohol and tobacco is very common in the tribal society. It is an integral part of their culture and daily life. Both male and female and even the children are addicted to intoxicants. PESA stipulates rules regarding this commonly practiced habit among the tribals. The decisions of the Gram Sabha, in relation to the grant of license for manufacture and sale of intoxicants, duration and renewals of licences, time of opening and closing of liquor shops, etc, are final, as specified in the PESA Rules. The Excise officials have to follow the decisions of the Gram Sabha. It is important that the tribals need to be aware of this provision. However, around 70.1 percent of the total respondents are not aware of this provision. Among them 70.3 percent are from Seethampeta and 28 percent from Maredumilli, while 0.8 percent each from Palakonda and Kothuru. For 14.7 percent and 5.3 percent, it is the decision of Gram Panchayat and Police, respectively. Only 10 percent of them are aware, out of which, 55.9 percent are from Maredumilli, 38.2 percent from Seethampeta and only two respondents from Palakonda district (Table 3.9).

According to the PESA rule, the Gram Sabha has the power to constitute committee to manage, protect and conserve the community forest resources with the technical guidance from the Forest Department. The powers of Gram Sabha are also recognised under Recognition of Forest Rights Act 2006 in determining the forest rights of individuals, community and community forest resources rights. The Forest rights Committee have to function at the Gram Sabha and not at the Gram Panchayat level. Only 14.1 percent of the respondents have responded that the Gram Sabha exclusively has the power to constitute committee to manage, protect and conserve community forest resources. Out of these 50 percent are from Seethampeta, 43.8 percent from Maredumilli and 6.3 from Palakonda. Few (14.4 percent) feel it to be the responsibility of either Gram Sabha or Gram Panchayat, of which 2 respondents each are from Hiramandalam and Palakonda and one from Maredumilli. responsibility of Forest department. Only 3 respondents from Seethampeta responded that it is the responsibility of police system (Table 3.10).

Summary

The above section examines the awareness of the respondents about the features of the PESA Act. The PESA Act provides the pivotal role to the village and it's Gram Sabha. The Gram Sabha is made competent to act on a range of power. Every Gram Sabha has to be competent to safeguard and preserve the traditions and customs of the people, their cultural identity, community resources and the customary mode of dispute resolution. It has the power to approve of the plans, programmes and projects for social and economic development before they are taken up for implementation by the Panchayat at the village level. Selection of persons as beneficiaries under the poverty alleviation and other programmes is to be done by the Gram Sabha. The Gram Sabha or the Panchayats at the appropriate level shall be consulted before making the acquisition of land in the Scheduled Areas for development projects and before resettling or rehabilitating persons affected by such projects. It is necessary for proper understanding of the feature of the PESA Act by the members of the Gram Sabha, for the effective implementation of the Act. However, the data from the field shows that most of the respondents do not have a basic understanding of the PESA provisions and its operational rules.

The respondents were asked about the role of Gram Sabha in implementation of various development programmes. The above table shows that nearly 89.7 percent of them are of the opinion that the Gram Sabha has to take up MGNREGS and ITDA works. A few have also said road and village works (4 percent) and school work (0.6 percent). Each of the respondents in Hiramandal and Kothure, and 4 in Palakonda have also said that the Gram Sabha has taken up MGNREGS and ITDA works while according to one respondent from Palakonda, school work has been taken up by Gram Sabha (Table 7.1).

Based group discussions during field work, there are number of issues in the villages which easily be solved at village level in the light of PESA Act. Still drinking water is a problem in some villages (Irapadu, Dubbaguda and Megadiraguda). Still there are no drinking water tanks/taps (Jamparikota) and in some places though water well is there and there is no pumpset (Kegumanu guda). Small works such as drainage cleaning may not require much funds. But this is problem in some villages (Dubbaguda and Solipi). In some villages, they require flood water walls which protect the villages during heavy rains (Megadiraguda, Jamparikota, Kegumanuguda and Nowgada). Still there is requirement of YSR houses (Irapadu, Solipi and Peddamamidi).

Relating basic infrastructure facilities some villages need Anganwadi centre, community halls, school buildings in place of old dilapidated buildings. Similarly roads are required particularly internal roads. If Grama Sabha are active these kinds of problems can be solved easily. Even these issues are repeatedly discussed in Grama Sabhas and nothing happens people lose interest in these institutions. In some villages, these are in good condition (Fig 1 to Fig 4).

There are number of land related issues are reported. Some lands are in the name of deceased and ownership is not changed still. Even land pattas are not properly written. In number of cases names are not properly entered. As a result, they could not get “Rythu Barosa Pathakam” money into their accounts.

8. Conclusion

Several legislations and programmes have been enacted and special institutions established by the Central and State Governments, during the past seven decades, for the socio-economic and political advancement of STs and achieving equity and inclusive growth in the society. Ever since there have been disturbances in the Fifth Scheduled Areas, against the state imposed Panchayati Raj, the Indian Government realised that the 73rd Amendment Act need to be extended with proper understanding. In order to extend these amended provisions, Bhuria committee was appointed in 1994 which suggested that the state should not intervene in tribal traditions and autonomy. Based on the recommendations, the Panchayati system was extended to Scheduled Areas with certain exceptions and modifications in the form of Panchayats Extension to the Scheduled Areas (PESA) Act, 1996. The main purpose of PESA Act is to empower the Gram Sabha and Gram Panchayats in Scheduled Areas for tribal self-governance in planning and implementation of tribal developmental policies and programmes along with supervisions.

The major institutional body for Fifth Scheduled Areas are the Tribal Advisory Councils (TACs), operating at the state level, with the Governor of the concerned state as the caretaker. The Governor is expected to report to the President of India on matters of welfare and development of Scheduled Tribes. Presently there are ten states having Fifth Scheduled areas- Andhra Pradesh, Chhattisgarh, Gujarat, Himachal Pradesh, Jharkhand, Madhya Pradesh, Maharashtra, Odisha, Rajasthan and Telangana. In Andhra Pradesh the Scheduled areas are located in five districts- Srikakulam, Vizianagaram, Visakhapatnam, East Godavari and West Godavari.

The Tribal Welfare Department, Government of Andhra Pradesh, has given operational guidelines for implementation of PESA 1998 and 2011 operational rules. The Government of Andhra Pradesh has also officially notified 1612 Gram Sabhas in 584 Gram Panchayat in five districts in 2013. Thereafter, the Tribal Welfare Department has also given second operational rules in 2017 for the effective implementation of the Act.

The Panchayats Extension to the Scheduled Areas (PESA) Act, 1996 provides the pivotal role to the village and it's Gram Sabha. The Gram Sabha is made competent to Act on a range of power. Every Gram Sabha has to be competent to safeguard and preserve the traditions and customs of the people, their cultural identity, community resources and the customary mode of dispute resolution. It has the power to approve of the plans, programmes and projects for social and economic development before they are taken up for implementation by the Panchayat at the village level. Selection of persons as beneficiaries under the poverty alleviation and other programmes is to be done by the Gram Sabha. The Gram Sabha or the Panchayats at the appropriate level shall be consulted before making the acquisition of land in the Scheduled Areas for development projects and before resettling or rehabilitating persons affected by such projects. It is necessary for proper understanding of the features of the PESA Act by the members of the Gram Sabha, for the effective implementation of the Act.

In order to understand the level of awareness about the PESA Act among the Scheduled Tribes in Scheduled Areas of Andhra Pradesh the study has been undertaken covering important issues based on provisions of the PESA Act.

The field data shows that the gram Sabha members are not aware of the Act. Majority of the tribals, 81.6 percent and 77 percent from Seethampeta and Maredumilli mandals, respectively, are not aware of the Act. Similarly, most of them are not aware that Gram Sabha is made the grass root level enquiry point for all levels of developmental works in the village. Nearly 39 percent of the respondents do not know the Sarpanch of the Gram Panchayat has to be the President of the Gram Sabha. The details of the community lands have to be provided to the Gram Sabha so that their utilization for the benefit of the community can be discussed and planned. But in reality, this is not happening. The situation is, thus, grim.

The operational guidelines for the implementation of PESA Act, 1998 was given in 2011. However, many respondents revealed that, PESA Act is still not implemented in their village. According to the Act, it is mandatory to conduct Gram Sabha meetings twice a year. However, Gram Sabha meetings are not conducted regularly. In fact, in Goidhi, a village in Seethampeta Mandal, Gram Sabha meeting was conducted only once when it was constituted in 2013 after the declaration of official Gram Sabhas. In cases where meetings are conducted, the members are not attending the same. The reasons they gave for not attending are that they are not informed about the meetings and village problems are not solved in the meetings. And since they don't attend, they are not aware of the issues discussed there. Those who attend feel that the plans discussed are not properly implemented because all the members are not aware of the plans and also due to insufficient budget. The respondents also suggested that the Gram Sabha has to be more active in solving problems for the effective implementation of PESA Act.

The enthusiasm among the tribals in Kutrawada, a village of Maredumilli Mandal, is however, appreciable. Most of the respondents attend the meetings having discussions on issues like development activities, sanitation issues, MGNREGA (Mahatma Gandhi National Rural Employment Guarantee Act, DWACRA (Development of women and children in rural areas), social audit, various diseases, old age pension, BPL cards, electing PESA Vice President and Secretary, issues of MFP (Minor Forest Products), giving prizes to children, celebration of festivals, raising funds for marriage, death, natural calamities, holding Gram Sabha special meetings, land registration, etc.

Based on group discussions during field work, there are number of issues in the villages which easily be solved at village level in the light of PESA Act. Still drinking water is a problem in some villages (Irapadu, Dubbaguda and Megadiraguda). Still there are no drinking water tanks/taps (Jamparikota) and in some places though water well is there and there is no pumpset (Kegumanu guda). Small works such as drainage cleaning may not require much funds. But this is the problem in some villages (Dubbaguda and Solipi). In some villages, they require flood water walls which protect the villages during heavy rains (Megadiraguda, Jamparikota, Kegumanuguda and Nowgada). Still there is requirement of YSR houses (Irapadu, Solipi and Peddamamidi).

Relating to basic infrastructure facilities some villages need Anganwadi centre, community halls, school buildings in place of old dilapidated buildings. Similarly roads are required particularly internal roads. If Grama Sabha are active these kind of problems can be solved easily. If these issues are repeatedly discussed in Grama Sabhas and nothing happens, people loose interest in these institutions.

There are number of land related issues are reported. Some lands are in the name of deceased and ownership is not changed still. Even land pattas are not properly written. In number of cases names are not properly entered. As a result, they could not get Rythu Barosa Pathakam” money into their accounts.

Recommendations: Among majority of the respondents in all the mandals, however, the level of understanding of the PESA Act was very poor and may not be helpful in the implementation of the PESA Act for the benefits of the tribals. Hence, it is necessary to properly make the members understand about the PESA Act and its importance in tribal affairs. Enough efforts have not been made to mobilise about the importance of PESA Act. Awareness programs by both government and NGOs can play an important role in educating the tribals.

Participation of the people in Gram Sabhas must be encouraged and the best-performing Gram Sabhas and Gram Panchayats should be further motivated. One of the reasons for the non-implementation of the plans and programmes discussed in the Gram Sabha meetings, according to the respondents, is the provision of insufficient budget. It is necessary for the ITDA to allocate some funds directly to individual Gram Sabhas through concerned Gram Panchayats for the mobilisation and implementation of PESA Act. Camps for the mobilisation of the Act have to be done from time to time, by tribal organizations and NGOs as well as government organizations.

Operational Guidelines for implementation of PESA Act 1998 and Rules 2011

Sub: Implementation of PESA Act 1998 and PESA Rules 2011- Operational Guidelines to mainstream the role of Gram Sabhas and other Panchayat raj Institutions in local administration in the Scheduled Areas of AP, prepared by Dr Palla Trinadha Rao, SPMO (LTR&PESA Act) --Issue of operational guidelines by the Heads of all the line departments to their functionaries- Requested-Reg.

The enactment of the PESA Act 1996 (Act 4 of 96 dated 24th December, 1996) by the Parliament is an important watershed in the history of tribal affairs and autonomy of Gram Sabha for the local self-governance in Fifth Scheduled Areas of the country. Whereas the Government of Andhra Pradesh also brought State legislation in 1998 (Act 7 of 1998 dated 16th January, 1998) as directed by the Central enactment extending the special provisions for the local governance in the Scheduled Areas of A.P. whereas, the State PESA Act came operational through notifying the PESA Rules in 2011 vide. GO Ms No 66 dated 24th March, 2011, governing the role of Gram Sabha in the local governance.

The Gram Sabha (GS), a nucleus for all development activities, which is endowed with specific powers and functions under PESA Act and Rules 2011, include management of community resources, minor water bodies, and ownership over minor forest produce. Gram Sabha is also an approval authority for socio, economic development plans and programs, and responsible for identification and selection of beneficiaries under various poverty alleviation programs. PESA Act further mandates the implementing agencies to seek funds utilization certificate from GS for the works executed in the village as part of the social audit. GS is also endowed with certain quasi judicial and regulatory powers including customary mode of dispute resolutions, safeguarding and preserving traditions, customs, control over money lending, local institutions and functionaries and regulate the use of intoxicants, and prevent tribal land alienation and restoration of alienated land etc.

Whereas in 2013, the Government notified the Villages for the purposes of constituting Gram Sabhas vide. Rc.No 511/2011/TRI/PR in the Scheduled Areas and enabling them to function as a self government unit within the framework of PESA Act and Rules for effective governance.

Whereas, the primary stakeholders of GS consistently informed that the constitutional role of GS under PESA Act is neglected by the departments in the local administration, which was also mentioned during the Training Programs on PESA Act organised by the AP Human Resources Development Institute (HRDI) with the support of Tribal Welfare Department in the ITDA Areas of East, West Godavari, Visakhapatnam and Vizianagaram Districts.

Whereas, a meeting was also held under the Chairpersonship of the Special Commissioner of Tribal Welfare, with the available officials of all the line departments on 19th April 2017 in Vijayawada to discuss on the draft guidelines circulated by Dr Palla Trinadha Rao and whereas, one day consultation was also held on 8th May, 2017 to discuss further on the revised draft operational guidelines prepared by him, in the office of CIPS, Hyderabad.

Whereas, in all the discussions that took place, the following operational guidelines for effective implementation of PESA Act 1998 and Rules 2011 were considered to mainstream the Gram Sabha and other Panchayat raj Institutions(PRIs) in the local administration in the Scheduled Areas of AP.
