9.2.1 Great Andamanese

1. The cultural voidness among the Great Andamanese be eliminated by introducing some strategical aimed at to improve the cultural up-liftment of community. It is felt that attention of the program should be diverted towards providing cultural rather than only materialistic support. To this some dedicated social/voluntary organisations be involved in motivating the tribals for participating various cultural activities like dance, festivals etc. in addition to make them interested towards various kinds of sports activities suitable that area. The social workers may also counsel regarding marriage alliance, health and other social activities.
2. The existing educational system at Strait Island hardly make the students interested in academics due to the ignorance/reluctance of the elderly of the community. It is, therefore, felt that an education centre should be established in settlement area with the help of some social/voluntary organisation for imparting compulsory basic education among the elderly folk of the community. While education set up for the children may be continued.
