In view of this no forest rights have yet been conferred on any tribals. There are no forest encroachers who qualify for being other traditional forest dwellers having resided on the forest land for bonafide livelihood needs for three generations (75 years) prior to cut off date, i.e., 13th day of December, 2005 for the purpose of recognition of forest rights under the Forest Right Act (FRA). So the question of Conferring forest rights on other traditional forest dwellers either does not arise.
